Nations Will Return to New League If Desired, on Own Terms

By H. N. Rickey.
(N. E. A. Staff Correspondent)

GENEVA, Nov. 26.—The almost not quite unanimous sentiment of the League of Nations assembly is that some way be found to bring the United States into the league. The willingness to accept the United States on any terms that she may want dictate is almost as unanimous as the sentiment for admission.

"This is not merely my impression of the state of mind of the delegates, but based upon a thorough investigation and many conversations during a week with the leading men of the Assembly."

If there is a feeling in America that the other nations want to bring her into the league, hoping that they will be able to control her great industrial, financial and potential power to their advantage, it is not justified by the facts.

No Blame

Certainly, these leading men of more than two-score nations who compose the assembly, have no illusions as to the material power of the United States as compared with any other nation or group of nations.

But neither are they foolish enough to have the delusion that, in or out of the league, the United States is going to dump its wealth into an international jackpot for world rehabilitation of permit the man-power to be commanded to settle European quarrels.

Every responsible statesman with whom I have talked interprets the American election as the final decision by the people of America not to join any world movement which puts any limitation on her own sovereignty or which limits her own control of her wealth and military power.

This interpretation has been accepted, so far as I can discover, without bitterness.

This League Only

But while the sentiment favorable to admitting America to the league on her own terms, provided they are at all reasonable, cannot be overestimated, it must be clearly understood in America that this league, and not some other league or association of nations is meant.

There is no sentiment whatever for breaking up this league and trying to organize another federal or association at the behest of America. Even if such a program were within the realm of practical statesmanship, which it is not, I doubt whether there are half a dozen nations represented in this league.

France accepted the League idea and consented to the covenant being made part of the treaty because America insisted upon it. The enforcement of the treaty depends upon the functioning of the league. France made many sacrifices in the treaty because of the guarantees in the covenant. For us to consent to the breaking up of the league for an association in which the treaty will not be included would be fatal for France. That is the situation in its practical aspect.

Another important consideration is that the league has shown a vitality greatly beyond our expectations.

France now believes in the league warmly and sincerely. The original and disinterested way in which the delegates at this meeting are approaching the great problems of world co-operation, justice and peace deeply impressed Frenchmen and the French people. If some of us come here to say, we are unwilling to pay.

France and the other nations have gone too far with the league to hesitate or draw back. If America becomes a member, whatever there is left of French suspicion will be removed.

We hope and believe America will take her great and rightful place in this movement for world justice and peace on such terms as she may suggest. But it must be this league for another association is impossible.

FREEDOM

There is no substitute for freedom. Neither good government nor national greatness can take its place. Man's right to be free is his most precious possession. Better freedom in rags than autocracy with all the wealth of the world. So Greece has spoken. The overthrow of Venizelos is that and nothing more.

In ancient Greece democracy—a Greek word—brought its world birth. Not since the days of early Athens has a statesman of the peninsula shown as much for his country as Venizelos. Greece is now again in the possession of her ancient territory in Thrace and Asia Minor which she lost before the Christian era. Venizelos, ranked at the peace conference as Europe's greatest statesman, gained this victory for Greece in exchange for the slight war service Greece had rendered the allied cause.

But, Venizelos acted in all things as an autocrat. He was the allies' man at Athens. He supported the allies' action in forcing Constantine to abdicate. He defended the occupation of Greek territory by the allies, as a means of fighting Bulgaria and the Germans, before Greece entered the war.

The Greek people have gained more out of the war, proportionately to their losses, than any other nation. But they were not consulted about their country's destiny. They had no particular affection for Constantine. But he was the head of their country, and he was deposed by foreign action. Freedom has no place in such a scheme of things.

If all the allies are wise, they will accept the verdict of the Greek people. To attempt to use financial pressure or military might for the purpose of nullifying the election result would only make matters worse. The Greeks are entitled to name their own ruler. If they wish Constantine to return, that is their own affair. As for Venizelos, he has now learned the lesson which stands forth throughout all Greek history. Greece ever casts aside her most beloveds when they forget that democracy has its root in two words as ancient as the Greek language—deos, people and kratos, rule.

SHAGGY HEADS

If one went into flower store and asked for a dozen Li-Ki the florist might be puzzled. But that is what Confucius called the chrysanthemum when he wrote about it over in China some 500 years before Christ was born. And that's how old at least the chrysanthemum is, something like 2500 years.

The sun season is on in America and the great shaggy blossoms in a score of improved shapes and blended colors will be sold by the hundred thousand in the season. It is the foot-ball flower above all others. And hundreds of greenhouses are filled with the nodding blossoms that will add to the gayety of scene on foot-ball fields all over this country.

Age has bettered rather than decreased the beauties of the bloom. The Japs have known it for at least 2,000 years. But in earlier centuries it was not the imposing mammoth head hundreds of years of cultivation has brought it to be. It came to Europe from Japan and China sometime in the seventeenth century and the florists of those days began its intense cultivation and developed the large flowers from which have come down our chrysanthemums of this day.

The name itself is from the Greek, and really means golden flower, which is not far from a good description in the light of the great lemon-and-orange colored blooms with which the florists' shops are filled. The young man, too, who prices the beauties of his dearest one, also becomes of the opinion that the mums are well-named the "golden-flower" but that doesn't stop his purchase, for is she not herself worth all her weight in gold?

It is bound to be another hot summer in the neighborhood of this. However, the popular form of entertainment seems to be the beach and the ocean. We all have to go to the beach to have any chance to get away from heat. An all-inclusive answer is that everybody wants to go where it is.

The queen of the Waziris on the Congo wears a broad collar around her neck, which weighed from 10 to 20 pounds. She had to lie down once in awhile to rest.

The Negro beauties wear iron bracelets and legions and toe bands from the size of a pea to that of a person. They carry weights up to 50 pounds and are forced to walk with a slow, dragging step which is considered aristocratic.

In Behar, Hindostan, the women wear brass rings on their legs, which could not be put on by a blacksmith with a hammer, while the fair beauty writhed on the ground in pain.

The women of the Barito Valley wear a girdle around the thighs so tight that it restricts the steps and produced a mincing gait, which they think beautiful. A tribe in Guiana have an ideal of beauty which is marked by a large abdomen. They wind the abdomen with many girdles to make it appear large. Some of the Arab tribes put on a bride 17 garments, a silk one and a muslin one alternately, then a mantle over all and a rug on top of the mantle.

In our own country no dress was ever more denounced than the ugly, inconvenient and indecent crinoline, but all the women, from 1855 to 1865, wore it.

Fashion is something which even the wisdom of Dr. Eliot must give up as hopeless.

U. S. Shelley That a Joint City Would Be Good Plan

Work to Promote
Consolidation and Municipal End

CHARLES L. FIX, mayor of Daytona Beach for terms, several years a member of the council and for some time a member of the street committee, has recently given the subject of consolidation considerable thought. "I believe I am concerned in the welfare of both Daytona Beach and Seabreeze, as the line between them is only imaginary and the community really a single one. Not a divided one in fact," said Consul J. S. Barbe when asked for his judgment regarding one government for the two corporations today.

"I have lived here eight years, he continued, "and I am now and always have been a booster for the two towns and I believe it is the greatest mistake that can be made that there should be any hesitation about the consolidation. It seems there are a few people in Seabreeze who from pure selfishness or narrow-mindedness and a few tight wads on the Seabreeze council, who cannot see far enough ahead for the benefit of themselves or of their community."

The mail delivery alone is sufficient consideration to warrant the joining of the two municipalities under one government and with one set of officials for the taxpayers to say, to say nothing about the most wonderful beach in the world. I believe I am safe in saying that the climate of Daytona Beach and Seabreeze for an all year round home place, cannot be surpassed anywhere on the globe. Some of the people of Seabreeze say, 'Come to Seabreeze and build your home as the taxes here are a good deal less than at Daytona Beach.' This is so, for the simple reason that they do not spend very much money on improvements. For instance, look at their beach, not a slight improvement on the Seabreeze front. The Potter faction says they have spent so much money in advertising Seabreeze that they cannot afford to lose their good name. As far as I am concerned I would not turn my hand for the difference in the name. Let us consolidate and all boost one town under some name. We are furnishing the people of Seabreeze water now at less than cost. There is nothing in the talk that a little coterie in Seabreeze who regard themselves as 'very exclusive' and who give as a reason for their opposition to consolidation that a higher grade and wealthier class live in and visit Seabreeze than Daytona Beach can boast of. While all respectable and well behaved residents and visitors are welcomed here without regard to the cut of their clothes or the amount of dollars they can bring, so far as I am concerned, what they claim is not true. I am pretty well acquainted in both places and I can see no difference in the class of people living there or visiting them. It may be they have a couple of hotels charging more for accommodations, but I feel certain that an investigation will show that Daytona Beach has just as fine homes and just as many of them and just as wealthy men and as many of them and just as enlightened and forward looking a community as is located north of Duke street. I do not desire to indulge in making comparisons but I am told our neighbors are fighting the consolidation because they are afraid they will be deprived of their exclusiveness."

Property Owners in Both Towns Present Strong Arguments

U. S. Shelley, property owner, successful business man and well known resident of Seabreeze in discussing the consolidation question said:

"There has always been some objection by Seabreeze people to the uniting of these two towns on the ground that they desired to keep their place exclusively a residential district. It cannot be seen how the uniting of the towns can in any way effect the conditions now existing in Seabreeze. It is conceded that Seabreeze is a beautiful residential section, laid out with wide streets, large lots and attractive homes. The same, however, may be said of the territory at the south end of Daytona Beach, comprising Marshall Park and Bostwick Park. Located equally distant from these residential districts is the business center, which, no doubt would continue to be such in case the towns should be united."

"As a property holder in both Daytona Beach and Seabreeze," continued Mr. Shelley, "I and others like myself are paying taxes to maintain two municipal governments, for the expenses of which there is, in my

Quite a Colony of Boswell, Indiana, Folks at the Beach

CHARLES L. FIX, mayor of Boswell, Indiana, is at Daytona Beach enjoying his 15th season here. Last January Mr. Fix purchased a home at 116 Coates street and is having some repair work and alterations made and when this is completed, Mrs. Fix will join him for the season. Mr. Fix drives through from his Indiana home in his car. He is a retired farmer. During the years Mr. Fix has been coming here and on his return to his summer home in Indiana, he has been lost in his praise of Daytona Beach and Seabreeze, of their matchless climate and advantages. As a result there is now quite a colony of Boswell people here this season, including Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Roberts and Mr. and Mrs. John Geer who are located in Judgment no semblance of an excuse except the remnants of an old grudge in which nine-tenths of the present residents of the two towns have no interest in and know nothing about it as it occurred a good while before they knew anything of either place. It is high time matters of this sort should be dropped and we look to the building up of a harmonious and united community, that is willing to stand united on all things pertaining to the progress and welfare of all our residents. As citizens of Seabreeze we at present are dependent upon Daytona Beach for our water supply for fire protection, more than half of us get our mail in Daytona Beach while our banking and shopping has to be done outside of our corporation limits. Should these towns be united we would all then be jointly interested in everything of public concern and would have a voice in the determination of any public question that might arise and would be considered necessary to the building up of this community which has wonderful possibilities providing all forces for their development can be united.

"So far as I am concerned the name of the united places is a matter of a decidedly secondary consideration. If we stand and work together we can succeed with almost any good name."

Review of Home Program of Federation Month

One of the most interesting meetings of the Peninsula club was held this week, at which time regular meetings of the state and national Federation of Women's Clubs were given, as well as a report of programs being rendered.

Because of the severe illness of Mrs. Nathaniel C. Davis, the president of the Peninsula club, she has been obliged to resign. Mrs. J. W. Banstead, recording secretary, was appointed to fill the vacancy of the term, and Mrs. George W. Gerard was appointed secretary. At this week's meeting Mrs. C. A. Phillips was leader and Mrs. J. K. Reynolds hostess to the club.

Madame Isabelle W. Cornwall gave a most interesting report on the national meeting of the federation held recently at Des Moines, while Mrs. W. E. Hitchcock and Mrs. A. W. Scoville reported the meeting of the same federation held last week at Tallahassee, both reports covering the meeting in detail and being much appreciated by the beach club members.

A musical program, including a violin solo by Little Miss Beverly Horn, a piano solo by Miss Wells, and a vocal solo by Miss Dorothy Adams concluded a most pleasing social afternoon.

MISS ADELAIDE BRIDGE AND WINTHROP EPOCH MARRIED

An event of interest to their many friends in the Triple Cities was the marriage, Thanksgiving morning, of Miss Adelaide M. Bridge, daughter of Mrs. Julian A. Bridge of New York City and Daytona Beach, to Winthrop Wright Epoch, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Koch of Daytona Beach, the ceremony having been performed by Rev. C. H. Ferran of Deland, at the Presbyterian Manse, at the county seat.

The bridal couple were attended by a number of friends and relatives, Morris Niver attending as best man, and Miss Mary M. Brennan of Harbor Beach, Mich., and Daytona Beach as bridesmaid. The bride was attired in a dark blue traveling suit of cotton.

Immediately following the marriage, the happy couple left by motor for a trip to Palm Beach and Miami, expecting to be at home in several weeks at their beach home, the former C. A. Lund home, at 223 Peninsula Drive.

The bride has made many friends at the beach during the several seasons spent here with her mother, while the groom is connected with the H. B. Schulte Realty company beach offices in the Arcade. The scores of friends of the couple are awaiting their return that they might extend congratulations and good wishes in the culmination of the engagement of the couple, which has been known by friends for some time.

MISS SADIE KNAPPE AND ARTHUR SJOBLOM MARRIED

One of the prettiest weddings of the season, was that of Thanksgiving eve when Miss Sadie Isabel Knappe became the bride of Arthur E. Sjobom, the ceremony being performed at the Union church in Holly Hill, the bride residing in Holly Hill with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Knappe. The groom is a popular Daytona young man, employed with the Merchants bank, having but recently completed a long service in the army as a member of the Motor Transport.

Rev. H. S. Rightmire officiated at the wedding, while Mr. and Mrs. Harry Starr beautifully sang "Because" as the wedding party approached the altar. Mrs. Edward Peterson played the wedding march, while Miss Edna Knappe, a sister of the bride and Miss Edwin Peterson, a cousin of the bridegroom were faintly flower girls.

Little Eva Knappe was ring bearer, and Miss Edna Peterson and Miss Dorothy Mungon were bridesmaids. The bride was accompanied to the altar by her father, while the groom was accompanied by Carl Wetherell as best man.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with roses and other tropical flowers in bloom here at this time. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful gifts in silver, linen, china and household gifts.

The bride's parents entertained following the ceremony, at a wedding dinner, some twenty-five guests participating. The happy couple left immediately afterward on a short wedding trip, expecting to be with the bride's parents in Holly Hill, until their own home is arranged for.

Dr. Randall's offer appears to be an excellent opportunity for some enterprising lumberman or wood men. The timber on this land is all hard wood—hickory, oak, gum and magnolia.

Randall offers to give away, absolutely without fee or price to any man who will do the thinning work. The sweet gum is immediately marketable at $20 per thousand feet at the veneer mill near Holly Hill.

This development will mean much to Daytona as it will increase the acreage of truck land and will bring several new farmers to the country.

Edith May

Edith May, a young woman from the quiet little Wisconsin village in the heart of bucolic Broadway, was in the famous Ziegfeld girl show—first the night of the first. Edith May (Lorenzberger) was born in New York City, where all the 27 years of her life. She had never been to a theater (except the Village movie); to a city restaurant or slept in a hotel or Pullman car. Then she was chosen as a "National Sweetie" in the National Sweetie's Beauty Contest, and was whisked away to Ziegfeld's shows and Mayflower movies to tell the story of her adventures and experiences to date. "Cousin" is the name of the woman writer who helped her get started in her work.

4—THE "BEAUTY MASTER"

By Edith May

It had arrived! I was to meet Ziegfeld—the man whose all over the world as a "beauty buyer," a dealer in faces and things theatrical! We had heard of him even in Monroe, a small town where I thought of him.

"Look at me with disappointment."

"Is this the girl who has been chosen in the Beauty pageant—you are wasting my time!"

The words sounded far off. Mechanically I smiled. It must be grin.

"What Was He Thinking of Me?"

I was thinking of me? Of my poor little gingham dress, my coat cost but a dollar in Miss Molly's shop at Monroe? But new pomade and nice stockings and I hoped he would look at my feet.

"Take off your hat," was what he said after the "How do you like?"

Never less thankful in all my life that my hair curls naturally.

He clapped.

Friend Lady laugh and say, "Pretty, isn't she? Nice smile, nice hair, and real eyes—yes?" And the man behind the desk said to the show tonight," he added. "Here are tickets. Let her see them off, and come here tomorrow at two."

I had never been to a "show" before in my life. I had been to the circus. But to sit in the very front row and watch a regular behind the footlights, with scenery and calcium and spotlights and red spring and—almost no clothes, but such gorgeousness and—what I could do nothing but gasp—that was a new experience, and I will never forget.

Punched herself to see if she was dreaming.

However the lights went down I pinched myself to see if I was dreaming.

"I'll be up there on that stage," I kept saying over and over in my head until we live through it!

"Will be exciting my life," in rushed the thought. "There is nothing like exciting my life" in rushing the thought. "There is nothing like exciting my life" in rushing the thought. "There is nothing like exciting my life" in rushing the thought.

"What do you think of the Folies?" she asked.

"I know," I answered. "They're a way to earn a living—for a little while."

"It's a good bit," she said, looking pleased.

Under what she meant.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 26.—American fans never welcomed the opening of the baseball season with more enthusiasm than did "corridos" lovers in the Mexican capital greet the return of bullfights, after four years of prohibition. Flaming pictures on every billboard announced that "El Torero," the huge bull ring here, would again be the scene of battle to death, and the newspapers in news stories and editorials heralded the opening of the season, which was auspiciously inaugurated the latter part of October and will run until the latter part of January.

During this period, some of the world's best matadors, most of whom have been fighting in Spain, will appear. Among those who have been engaged at fancy prices are Adolfo Gaona, Ernesto Pastor, Luis Freg, Fernandez Manalete and Juan Silveri. The opening of the season with Silveri, a Mexican favorite, and "Antipete," a Spanish youngster, appearing jointly, was a festive occasion. At the last moment there had been a disagreement with the government both as to the amount of taxes to be paid by the proctors and as to the safety of immense amphitheater which for almost four years has been in practical disuse.

All difficulties were finally removed and Sunday afternoon found 25,000 cheering spectators awaiting the entrance of the first bull. Diplomats, high federal and civic officials, the city's social aristocracy, paid their pesos each to sit in the shade and watch the spectacle, while several thousand pelados (peons) were glad to sit in the sun and pay 2 pesos each for the privilege. It was a gal's day, and six bulls were dispatched in record time.

Bull fights are held on Sunday afternoons and on the days of fiesta, and Mexico City's glorious winter season, which a "mill" of rain, assures perfect weather. Six bulls are generally killed and clever matadors will complete the bill in an hour and a half. Gaona, Pastor, Freg and Belmonte are said to receive from $6,000 to $12,000 pesos each for an afternoon's work (Normally a Mexican peso is worth 50 cents.)

BREAKFAST is too often eaten as a duty rather than a joy. The success of the day may depend upon the spirit of breakfast. The Royal Educational Department presents some breakfast dishes that will send the children to school with a "hip hip hooray" and his majesty man to his daily duties with the "up and doing" feeling which knows no discouragement.

HORSE RACING IS REVIVED BY TURKS ON ROMAN CAMPUS

(The Associated Press)

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 26.—The Turks are now holding horse races on the plain known as the Campus about 10 miles from Constantinople, where the Roman camp was situated.

During the reign of Sultan Murad II, the horses were trained by the soldiers and, according to the legend, the horses were trained by all methods, including the arrows of weapons, as well as a sprucing of Turkish women.

At a glance you can sift what interests you most and in a moment you know when and where to go for what you want.

Figure how many steps, how much needless walking and talking the advertisements thus save you and your neighbors.

Then you realize the great economy and necessity of advertising in your daily life.
